Hi All,

This is how I view the current scenario from a criminal law perspective. Personal property cannot be stored in the street. Street services will remove these items because they impede traffic, even in a parking spot. If the dresser in the picture is moved onto the sidewalk, 3 feet for ADA compliance must be given. If the bulky item is on the sidewalk, not for sale, but not allowing ADA 3 feet of passageway, then sanitation can either relocate the item on the sidewalk to gain 3 feet ADA compliance or remove the bulky item and store it. If the item is for sale, then the vending ordinance can be applied and if there's a violation, only an ACE citation can be issued because there's no criminal penalty, and usually by street services.

Does anyone have a different understanding of this problem location?

Good afternoon,

We have a new issue developing in the Cobrin Ave 101 Freeway underpass. A person living in a van is now selling items on the street. The photo in the email below is not clear, but the white paper on the items says "for sale". I understand that once an illegally dumped item is taken into possession by another person it becomes their property so it cannot be collected as a bulky item. If that item is then posted "for sale" in the public right of way, can an ACE citation be issued for a violation of the sidewalk vending ordinance? Is there any immediate action that can be taken to remove the items from the street or at least relocate them?

Thank you!
